

10/25/2004

TO: Federal Communications Commission

Dear Sir or Madam:

This comment is to register my support for radio station K-LOVE and the services of other similar radio stations – instead of the Low Power FM (LPFM).

It is my understanding LPFM could be given priority over the FM translator service with which I now receive K-LOVE.

I have found that K-LOVE and other similar radio stations serve an important community interest, in that they provide a valuable alternative over listening to other, mainstream radio stations. There are not very many radio stations that play Christian music, especially in comparison to the total number of radio stations. If not for K-LOVE and similar stations, the options available to the listening public would be seriously limited, and an important alternative would be eliminated.

It would be unfair and unreasonable for the FCC to give priority to LPFM stations, which would therefore deprive the listening public of K-LOVE and similar radio stations which provide a valuable public service.

I appreciate your reviewing my comments. Please feel free to contact me with any questions or comments you might have.